"Changing America: The Emancipation Proclamation, 1863 and the March on Washington, 1963" is presented by the Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture and the National Museum of American History in collaboration with the American Library Association Public Programs Office. The exhibition is made possible by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) and is part of the NEH's Bridging Cultures initiative, "Created Equal: America's Civil Rights Struggle," which brings four outstanding films on the civil rights movement to communities across the United States (see http://createdequal.neh.gov). "Created Equal" encourages communities across the country to revisit and reflect on the long history of civil rights in America.

For more information, visit our website http://libguides.metrostate.edu/changingamerica or contact the Institute for Community Engagement at community.engagement@metrostate.edu and 651-793-1285.

Anyone with disabilities needing accommodations for a Metropolitan State event or who needs a publication in alternative format should call the Center for Accessibility Resources at 651-793-1549 or Accessibility.Resources@metrostate.edu at least one week prior to the event.

"Changing America: The Emancipation Proclamation, 1863 and the March on Washington, 1963" photo credits:
- We March, We Demand, Library of Congress (top left)
- Participants at the March on Washington, U.S. National Archives and Records Administration (top right)
- Emancipation Day, Richmond, Virginia, 1905, Library of Congress (lower left)
- President Lyndon B. Johnson Signs the Civil Rights Act, July 2, 1964, Lyndon Baines Johnson Library and Museum (lower right)